Applied Quantitative Methods Workshop (AQMWW)

Faculty Organizers: Lincoln Quillian (sociology) and Jason Seawright (Political Science)
Student Organizers: Emilio Lehoucq and Antonio Nanni

September 28
Introduction to the Workshop (should end by 4:45 at latest)

October 5
Emilio Lehoucq | Northwestern - Sociology
"Context Dependent Public Understanding of Algorithms: Do Americans Think Predictive Automation is Fair?"

October 19
Ewurama Okai and Julia Behrman | Northwestern - Sociology
“The Contours of Identification Choices among First and Second-generation African migrants in France.”

November 9
Sarah Bouchat | Northwestern - Political Science
“Incorporation: Assessing Corpus Selection for Social Science Applications.”

November 16
Andrés Rodríguez-Cáceres | Northwestern - Sociology
“Demarcation and Difference: Language and Racial Self-Identity in Latin America.”

Fall 2020 | Select Mondays from 4:00-5:15 PM | Via Zoom

If you would like to be added to our regular e-mail list, e-mail Lincoln Quillian at l-quillian@northwestern.edu
Students may also register for the workshop for credit. Contact l-quillian@northwestern.edu for more information.