Description: In this talk, Dr. Jones discusses how racism, especially anti-Blackness, is embedded in sex industries. Still, explaining their work in the field of Black Erotics, linking race, gender, sexuality, and the erotic spheres of life, Jones theorizes systems of power alongside Black pleasure, joy, and embodiments and to advocate for Black sexual freedoms.

Angela Jones is Professor of Sociology and Department Chair at Farmingdale State College, State University of New York. Jones's research interests include African American political thought and protest, sex work, race, gender, sexuality, feminist theory, Black feminisms, and queer methodologies and theory.

Thursday
February 22, 2024
12:30-2:00pm

Parkes 222
1870 Sheridan Road
Evanston, IL 60208

For Zoom info please contact:
sociol@northwestern.edu